There are half a dozen good reasons why you should get my estimate on house painting before you hand out your contract.

Chief among them is the fact that I can give you a low estimate and a good enduring job. My best references are the houses I have painted. Let me point out a few of them to you if you have any doubts about my ability to please you and at the same time save you money.

SACRED WORDS BANDIED BY STREET GOSPELERS

"Christ is broke; God is bankrupt."

With the above somewhat irreverent phrase the long-haired "Children of Israel," the fire and brimstone exhorters, the disciples of "The Simple Life," who recently arrived in Honolulu, startled a big audience on the Benson-Smith corner last evening.

About the time this phrase was uttered the Salvation Army, with its loud band and drumbeat drawing a host of followers, hove in sight and marched past the little knot of "Children of Israel." Then began a merry little religious war. The Children roasted the Salvationists and said they were the work of the devil himself, and the Salvation Army in turn paid its compliments to the long-haired ones. In a little while the Peniel Mission people occupied a third corner at the Fort and Hotel street section and then began a three-cornered fight for the supremacy.

"The children of Israel" being the newest and most unique of the trio of organizations held the biggest crowd. However, the Salvationists rung in a little game on the "Children," for the latter made one big stand before an audience by failing to take up a collection. One enterprising Army lassie saw a chance to do a little business in the crowd surrounding the Children and passed her tambourine around and gathered in a harvest of nickels.

Rev. Mr. Jeffries, father of the redoubtable pugilist champion, "Jim" Jeffries, was the first to address the audience. He began by saying that the Lord had sent His people out into the world to teach, without purse or scrip. He said they expected to be scoffed at and ridiculed by the newspapers.

"But," said he, "we have no kick coming. Everybody on earth is a foe of God, but their end is destruction—they are to be committed to damnation and destruction and hell itself."

Then came the next brother, the youngest of the group, and one of the keenest zealots and exhorters among them. He had hardly begun to talk before the Salvation Army, headed by torch-bearers, announced its coming by a lively march tune. As the band passed the Children only the drum was in action, and how the drummer did lay the padded stick on the skin. It drowned out the brother's voice. The latter waited in silence for an instant and then let loose against the Army. "We will wait until the 'holiness' band gets by so we can hear ourselves think and talk," the brother said sarcastically. The raising his hands and his voice at the same time, the brother shouted:

"You won't find that," pointing to the Army on the other corner, "in the bible, nor anything like it, nohow. It is a man-begotten thing. God don't know anything about it because it's a delusion and a snare. Blind Bartimeas was a thousand miles ahead of the Salvation Army. Why is it a delusion? Because they seek after money, which we do not. Depend upon Christ for your needs and He will give ye raiment and food and water. Therefore, I say to you Christ is broke; God is bankrupt."

"The veil is before their eyes and your eyes, and they know not the truth. That organization over there comes from the devil. Why? Because it is disobedient to God. I would crawl on my knees to that meeting to tell them the truth and ask them to join with the people of the Lord, but I know it will do no good. They don't know the difference between following a man and following Christ. There is nothing from Papacy down to a cadet in the Salvation Army that is right. They are all wrong. Babylon! Confusion! Strife!"

And so the meeting went on to the end. One of the speakers was the wife of one of the brothers. She pleaded with the audience to take the word of Christ as He uttered it, to owe no allegiance to man-begotten creed or denomination, follow in his footsteps and lead "The Simple Life."

SALVATIONISTS HIT BACK.

At the close of the regular Salvation Army meeting on the corner of Hotel and Fort streets last night Major Milsaps said a few words regarding the "Children of Israel" who had been ranting at the Salvationists from another corner. The major said that in all his travels he had seen many different sects but that he was glad that no sect and no church could alone save souls but that the only way of salvation was through Jesus Christ, they all have to come through Him. The major then spoke of the foolishness of any sect claiming that only its members could be saved or were going to heaven. "If we are to believe a sect that says that," he declared, "then heaven must be a mighty lonely and uninteresting place."

When the tambourines were passed for the collection one of the Salvation Army lassies took hers, boldly marched over to the crowd around the "Children of Israel" and manipulated it there. Evidently she thought that if the "Children" were provided for, there was no need of letting the money in the crowd go to waste.

FIRST TO GET HIS NAME IN NEW BOOK.

J. P. Dawson, blue jacket, had the honor (?) of having his name inscribed on the first line of the Honolulu Police Station blotter for 1905. He was arrested at 1:37 yesterday morning by Officer Needham and locked up on a charge of drunkenness. F. Williams and Saarinan, a blue jacket, divided honors as the last arrests in 1904, both being booked at 11:45; the former arrested by Captain Kanae for being drunk and the latter by Patrol Wagon driver Toomey for assault and battery on a police officer. The first arrest of 1904 was J. H. Haole, arrested in Palama last January by Mounted Patrolman Fred Wright and booked as a drunk. The old custom of freeing the first prisoner of the year was departed from this year, as Dawson is also accused of being in the same mix-up as Saarinan and may be held on a more serious charge. Williams was let out in his stead.

POLICE TURNKEY IS MARRIED

The marriage of Miss Nellie Ganzell and Mr. Scott Wright was celebrated yesterday forenoon at St. Andrew's Cathedral, the Rev. Alexander Mackintosh officiating. After the ceremony the couple left for Haleiwa, where the honeymoon will be spent. On Saturday night an ante-nuptial dinner was given for the contracting parties at the home of the bride's mother, corner of Vineyard and Fort streets. The groom is one of the turnkeys at the police station.

AN EDITOR'S OPINION.—John S. Davies, Esq., editor and proprietor Guardian and Star, Hokitika, New Zealand, said: "I have found Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a very valuable medicine, having received great benefit from its use when suffering from a cold, and as a preventive for croup in children its excellent properties have been testified in my family." For sale by all dealers. Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., agents for Hawaii.

STABBING AND OTHER VIOLENCE YESTERDAY

The police had a rather strenuous time of it yesterday. Twenty-eight gamblers were gathered together in two raids and several cases of drunkenness and assault served to enliven the station house.

Thomas Lundgren, who works out on Quarantine Island, was taken to the Police Station twice during the day. He licked a man about 4:30 and was pulled, but friends soon bailed him out. Continuing, however, to look for trouble, he found it out behind Spencer's saloon. This time he more than met his match in Jim Hughes, who soon had him down and out. The police were notified and Lundgren was brought in. Fearing another Toepelman case, Dr. Emerson was summoned. The doctor decided the bruises were of little consequence and that the man was simply drunk.

Down at Kakaako a stabbing affair took place. A man named Davis stabbed a Kanaka over the eye. Davis is now locked up and his victim is at the Queen's Hospital.

MRS. J. L. KAULUKOU DIES ON NEW YEAR'S

Mrs. Anna Luapana Kaulukou, wife of John Lot Kaulukou, died yesterday morning from heart failure. She had been suffering from dropsy for the last year and a half. Her body was taken to Ed. Williams' undertaking parlors and services will be held there this morning at 10 o'clock, after which the funeral procession will proceed to Kawaiahae, where the departed will be buried alongside of her daughter. All friends of the family are invited to attend.

Mrs. Kaulukou was born at Hilo, Hawaii, in August, 1853. She married Judge Kaulukou in December, 1871. Her son, Abram Kaulukou, is now a senior in the Yale Law School, where he has been making a fine record.
